

Arc Aspicio is a homeland security consulting and technology company. The company specializes in developing solutions for complex mission problems, including border security, immigration, transportation security, emergency management, and infrastructure protection. The company's significant expertise in these mission problems and extensive work with DHS stakeholders allows Arc Aspicio to quickly identify challenges and create innovations to solve them. The specific solution areas include Big Data/data analytics, mobile technology solutions, innovative portals and websites, and cross-agency information sharing. The company also has a defined process for working with clients in Innovation Workshops, applying techniques to generate creative and never-before-thought-of solutions to challenges. The company's leadership has a track record in creating border security-related patented processes and technology solutions. The mission knowledge of the company, combined with experience piloting and implementing large-scale solutions promotes research and development of new ideas.
